

The Orchid

*I saw a flower, a proud and delicate orchid
I met her, bewitching enigmatic fairy*

*Its exquisite petals dancing on their arched branch
She wears her life with elegance*

*The colours so breathtakingly radiating beauty
Her eyes can whisper the deepest emotion*

*They speak the language of ultimate harmony
Generosity is woven in her as shining silk*

*The world is a miracle when they bloom
All her smiles wear sweet promises*

*Time is suspended by such grace
Does she know how much she moves*

*I would like to freeze that instant
My heart has been running wild ever since*

You are my orchid
