1. Global Warming

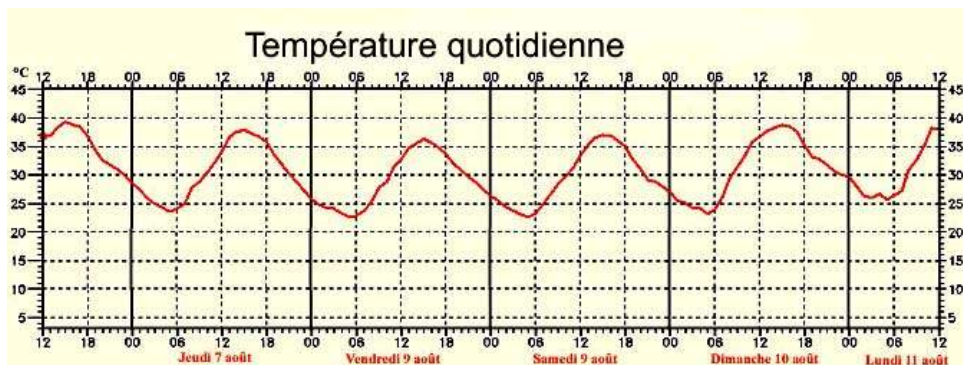

1. Greenhouse effect

The greenhouse phenomenon has become fashionable in recent years, its origin comes from what is seen in a greenhouse when its temperature significantly increases much more than the external temperature, but these followers do not explain the reason for this increase.

In fact solar radiation carries energy, and consequently any body that absorbs this radiation will see its temperature increase until an equilibrium is established between the energy emitted and the energy received, in the case of 'a greenhouse is the objects that heat up and not the air in the greenhouse, the same thing happens in a closed car, the light through the windows warms the table and the seats which in turn warm the air surrounding, and as the car or greenhouse is a closed space and somehow isolated from the outside it is normal that its internal temperature will increase in a very clear way.

The greenhouse effect is used effectively in solar water heaters that can reach temperatures near the boiling point of the water and even more using another fluid, this feat is possible by the insulation and the volume restricted heated by solar radiation.

The same thing happens in the atmosphere, the morning is usually the time when the temperature is the lowest, after the sunrise the temperature starts to increase.

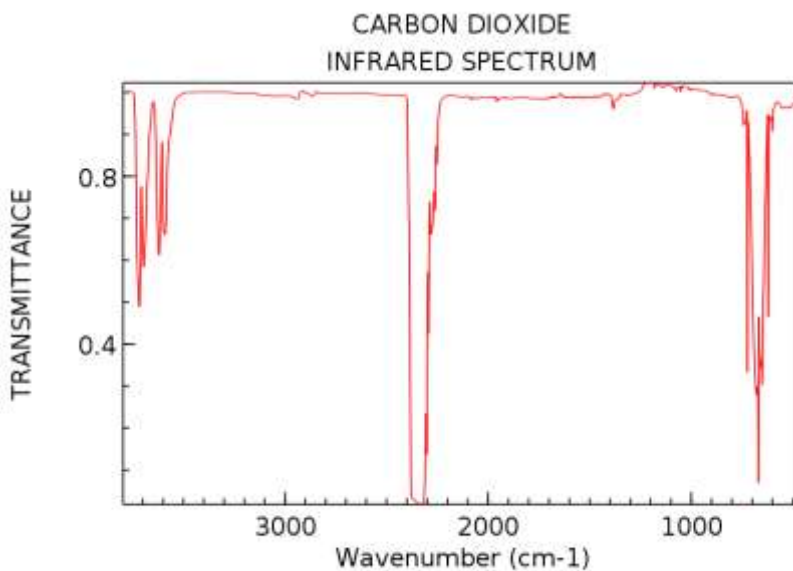

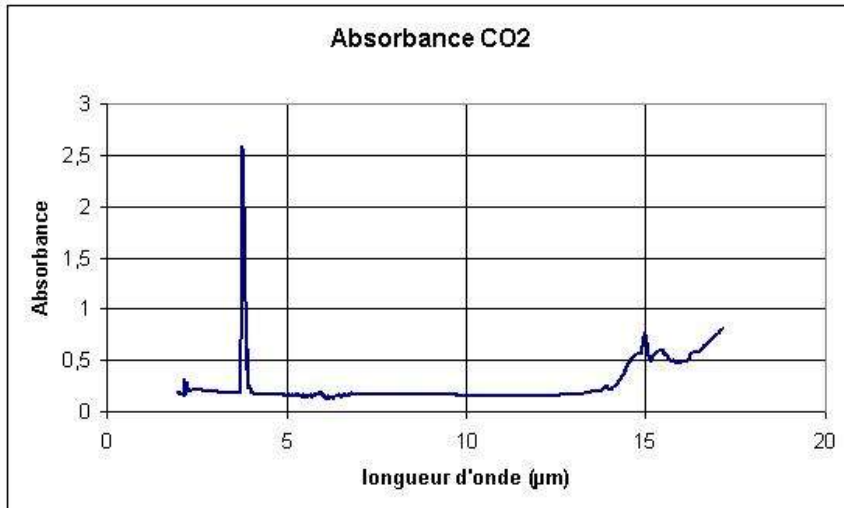

The atmosphere is transparent to the sun's rays, it is the surface of the ground which absorbs most of the solar radiation and is heated and at the same time transmitted from the heat to the air which is in direct contact with the ground, this phenomenon is highlighted by the presence of mirages which clearly show that the hot soil strongly heats the layer of air which is just above, on the other hand the atmosphere has a great thermal inertia that is why the temperature increases slowly .

2. Global Warming

The average temperature in a place on earth depends on several factors, the most important is the solar energy received at ground level, the atmosphere plays an important role so that the difference between the minimum and maximum temperature is not very large, the soil has a low thermal inertia because it is insulating, the underground temperature is always mild it is hot or cold, it varies little throughout the year, it is generally colder in summer and warmer in winter that the air temperature above, the seas and oceans play a big role in the stability of the temperature, the constant atmospheric pressure with the extent of the waters of the seas and the oceans make regulate the temperature of the earth as it seldom exceeds 40 degrees and only in remote areas far from the seas. When the temperature rises, the formation of clouds that reflect solar radiation to space and protect the earth from overheating .

The majority of the thermal energy of the air comes from the ground or the surface of seas heated by the solar rays, the hot air moves upwards by the phenomenon of convection, by ascending it expands and cools and by At the same time radiates thermal energy, which is why the temperature decreases with altitude. In a static fluid normally the temperature should increase with the altitude that is to say that the hot zones must be at the top and the cold zones at the bottom, it is the case in seas, the more one goes down in depth more the temperature decreases, this phenomenon can occur also in atmosphere especially at the end of the night before the sunrise, the temperature on the ground is colder than the high layers, also when there is a cloud layer, this atmospheric phenomenon is called the temperature inversion, this phenomenon is very common at the south and north poles because of the low solar radiation. The atmosphere is heated from below, that is, the soil and the seas and oceans that heat the earth's atmosphere.

On the other hand we talk about greenhouse gases caused by the presence of certain gases in the atmosphere, especially CO₂; most of the gases are transparent to visible and infrared rays, the same thing for carbon dioxide and steam of water, the carbon dioxide is perfectly transparent for the infrared, it absorbs only in a very narrow window, so the majority of IR radiation is more than 97% of IR passes through the CO₂ gas without being absorbed, so the presence CO₂ has no effect on the transparency of the infrared atmosphere, and even if the CO₂ is heated by an IR wavelength it will radiate this energy in different IR wavelengths according to the black body, so the gas carbonic acid has only a minimal effect on the temperature of the atmosphere.

NIST Chemistry WebBook (<http://webbook.nist.gov/chemistry>)

The thermal energy of the atmosphere is almost exclusively for origin the soil and the seas and oceans that are heated by solar radiation, the formation of clouds play an important role in the regulation of the temperatures of the globe because the clouds reflect a great part of the radiation, they play a buffering or counteracting role, it is known that most of the clouds cover the seas and oceans, the higher the temperature of the earth increases the more there will be vaporization and formation of clouds and the more it will protect the earth's surface from solar radiation.

So all this noise on CO2 accused of being responsible for global warming has no physical basis, moreover no one can show that there is really global warming, but there are signs of cooling to because of increasingly harsh winters and decreasing precipitation and desertification and the spread of droughts.

On the other hand, we still do not know why the Earth's atmosphere is composed almost exclusively of oxygen and nitrogen, because enormous quantities of carbon dioxide are released by the volcanoes and entrails of the earth for millions of years. While it represents only 0.035% in the atmosphere, it is less than 0.1%. The atmosphere of the earth should be composed of CO₂ and N₂ and water vapor that condense it into liquid water. Scientists claim that atmospheric carbon dioxide is almost completely assimilated by plants that later turn into coal. On the other hand the presence of sulfur in coal is an important index of its volcanic origin, the sulfur content in many coal type is from 1% to 5%, some type of coal contains up to 10%. While the level of sulfur in plants does not exceed 0.5% in the dry matter.

Indeed Carbon dioxide cannot exist long in the atmosphere under the action of ultraviolet radiation, it dissociates in carbon and oxygen, the same phenomenon is observed for water, however the liquid water is more stable especially when it is down atmosphere and in liquid form, all the heterogeneous gases such as methane, ammonia, sulfur dioxides and others are absent in our atmosphere, although their sources are so numerous on earth, the decomposition of carbon dioxide by the solar radiation explains the formation of thick deposits of coal and graphite, many think that its deposits are due to the sedimentation of forests and swamps, but the proportion of carbon in plants with several minerals does not allow the formation of the thick deposits of high concentration of carbon, the only deposits of charcoal from plants it is peat that give a coal low carbon.

The concentration of carbon in animals is not very different from that of plants, although animals form deposits of phosphates and not coals.

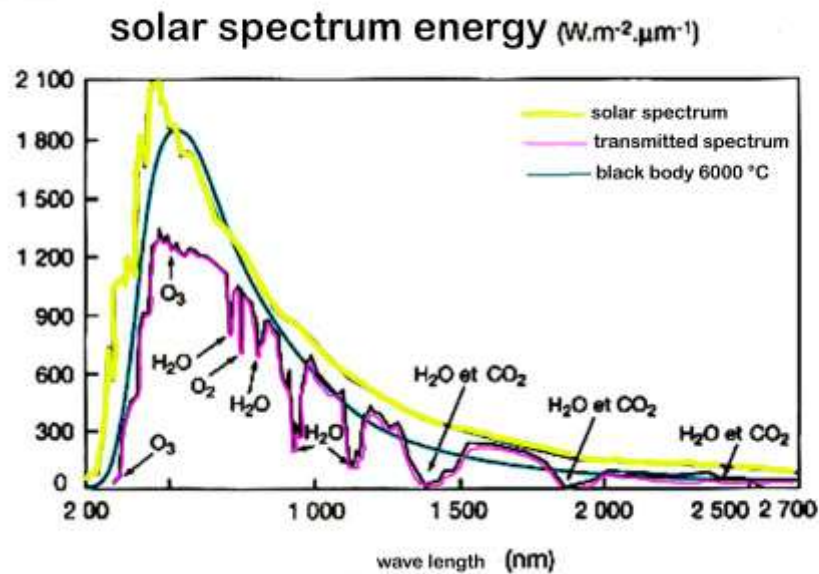

So from all this the greenhouse effect can only occur for a very small space and in addition that this space must be sufficiently thermally insulated, that is to say that it receives heat in the form of radiation and at the same time will have difficulty evacuating it to space, and this situation is absolutely impossible for an atmosphere that is a fluid of large volume open to space.

The rotation of the earth and the great thermal inertia of the atmosphere and the seas and oceans make that the differences of the temperatures are not too great, they are almost constant in the marine areas.

It is the sea and the atmospheric pressure which caps the maximum temperature, that is to say that even if the intensity of solar radiation increases in a notable way it will have no effect on the maximum temperatures which will reign on earth, the increase in the intensity of the radiation will result in an increase in the vaporization and the formation of clouds and increase of precipitation, the clouds are very solar radiation reflective. The decrease in solar energy will have the effect of decreasing the temperature and consequently the decrease of vaporization and the formation of the clouds and the precipitations that follow, the result is harsher winters, and warmer summers in some places and little precipitation .

In reality the Earth's atmosphere is perfectly transparent for almost the entire solar spectrum, however a significant absorption is observed for the ultraviolet but only in the upper atmosphere because of the oxygen that reacts with the Ultraviolet transforming into Ozone.

The Earth's atmosphere also has very narrow absorption peaks due to the presence of H₂O and CO₂, and the pro-greenhouse effect is based on the fact that the increase in the proportion of CO₂ in the atmosphere causes the heating of the planet, but the first infrared absorber is water vapor not CO₂.

When the temperature of a body increases it tends to emit energy according to the law of the black body, this emission is done in a broad spectrum infrared, even if the atmosphere absorbs energy in narrow wavelengths it will always be able to radiate energy towards space, indeed the great absorber of solar radiation are the oceans, the seas, the lakes, and the soil and not the atmosphere, the majority of energy thermal of the atmosphere comes from these sources, it is the soil and the bodies of water that heat the Earth's atmosphere and not the solar radiation that crosses it because the atmospheric absorption is low and only for some peaks. narrow, the proof is that the highest temperature is always close to the ground except in conditions In particular, the atmosphere is always heated from below, it is the phenomenon of convection that always removes the heat towards the upper layers, the infrared radiation radiated by the ground and the expanses of water is also very weakly absorbed, it is the soil-atmosphere and water-atmosphere contact that is responsible for the majority of heat transfer to the atmosphere.

There is a great source of underground energy, the temperatures inside the globe reach high values, this heat is certainly due to the radioactivity of the elements that make up the underground, this source of energy is of low power but because of the poor conductivity of the rocks that this heat finds difficult to evacuate to the outside and consequently the temperature inside has increased in a spectacular way. Volcanism is the most efficient way for the earth to evacuate its internal heat.

Volcanic activity produces huge amounts of carbon dioxide as well as other gases such as SO₂, H₂S, N₂ and water vapor. Water is rapidly transformed into liquid while other gases are decomposed into simple molecules, the emission of carbon dioxide is not only made by volcanoes but also countless points of the globe are the seat of strong releases of this gas. If we analyze the geological maps, we can see that in several places where there was a lot of volcanic activity there are deposits of coals. Also the presence of sulfur in coal in high proportions proves its volcanic origin. Carbon dioxide can not last long in the atmosphere; it will always end up being broken down by solar radiation into carbon and oxygen.

The emission of carbon dioxide from human activities is surely lower than the geological release, and in any case measurements of CO₂ levels in the atmosphere show that it is still in a very narrow range, if this rate is now 0.035% it should double or triple to talk about an increase of this gas in the atmosphere, indeed the rate of 0.035% of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is abnormally very low, we can even say that it is absent despite the numerous sources of this gas, the only explanation for the absence of this gas in the Earth's atmosphere is its decomposition by solar radiation that is to say that this gas can not survive in the atmosphere.

2 The September 11th

The September 11 attack is full of mystery, as two airliners hit the two towers of the World Trade Center without powerful anti-espionage and espionage organizations having failed to counter the attack. But what interests us in this case is the abnormal collapse of these two towers. What is interesting in this case is that this collapse was filmed live and by various journalists and witnesses, the American government from the beginning imposed the idea that this collapse is the normal result of the impact of these big planes on the towers that weakened it by the shock and also by the fire that broke out later.

American and even international public opinion quickly accepted the official version which states that the collapse of these two towers is the inevitable result of the collision of these big planes against these two towers, it is only after several days and even several months that voices were raised affirming the impossibility of this collapse, the problem and much more serious, because it is not the collapse of these two towers which poses a problem but especially the way these two towers are collapsed.

When we follow the course of the collapse we find the following facts:

1) The collapse is abnormally fast, some even think it is faster than the free fall of a body!

2) The collapse is from top to bottom, while the bottom of the towers remains intact, we note that disintegration continues from high to bottom until the complete disintegration of the towers.

3) The final result of this collapse is a cluster of small debris and huge quantities of dust, this kind of collapse is never seen except for old unarmed buildings, as if these two towers are built by dry clay in the manner of primitive constructions.

Many pro-government sources have rushed to explain this abnormal collapse by relying on various theories most adopted is:

The area struck by the aircraft was strongly weakened and the upper part crushed the lower part which destroyed the whole into small fragments.

In fact, this is exactly what happens at the beginning of the collapse, we see that the upper part suddenly descends by crushing the lower part but it even disintegrates, and the demolition continues from top to bottom which is contrary to all logic!

Some have proposed as an explanation the controlled demolition that is to say the use of explosives to collapse these two towers. Indeed explosives are commonly used for the demolition of buildings and in mining works, however this theory comes up against a lot of inconsistencies:

- 1) Controlled demolition requires a lot of time for the installation of the explosives, and it is always preceded by a weakening of the building before exploding it, and the explosives must be installed with care to destroy the pillars, but it is impossible to do this long work is accurate to the shelter of the glances especially that these works are essentially drilling holes etc.
- 2) Either use huge amounts of explosives distributed on each floor, but the demolition will simply be in the form of huge explosions and the formation of huge amounts of smoke and flames.

Looking at different video recordings of controlled demolitions, we can see that the collapse of these two towers does not correspond to a controlled demolition.

The collapse of these two towers combines two forces:

A strong force at a distance from top to bottom on both towers, followed by another force that disintegrates the towers from top to bottom, and the result is on the complete disintegration of these two towers so that nothing remains.

The September 11 attack was probably unexpected by the Americans, because the way of attack there is no doubt that it is an attack Alien, because it is they who possess the technology to do such a feat, one has known for a long time that they master the manipulation of gravity, they also have a laser-like weapon but that exerts a force that disintegrates the material, this weapon works like ultrasounds of high energy. We do not know the nature and energy of this weapon is it an electromagnetic wave or any other form of unknown energy?

The American authorities quickly picked up all the debris, most of which are small in size, with the two buildings having enormous steel structures, beams and metal planks of several meters, everything was reduced to small crumbs. Never seen in the most powerful earthquakes or in the most intense bombardments, the Americans quickly shipped this scrap abroad to be melted without allowing the experts to study and scrutinize these debris.

It is clear in the photos above that the tower is fixed and solid and at the same time its destruction continues from top to bottom. It can also be seen that debris from decay tends to drop rapidly towards the bottom, confirming that this disintegration is not due to the use of explosives.

Comparing this collapse with many cases of earthquake collapse we are certain that the collapse of the Trade Center towers has nothing to do with a normal collapse, it is a forced demolition.

We see in the picture above that although these buildings have collapsed following the earthquake they have kept some of their forms.

Even the most rudimentary constructions when they collapse keep some of their shape.

the tower of Grenffell totally ignited with flames

the same tower after the fire still standing

This photo is taken from a video, it was taken just after the collapse of the first tower while the second tower was still standing.
We can see that there is not much left, the first tower was completely sprayed .

3 . The Globe Form

The Earth Globe has a spherical shape, the discussions and debates on this subject enter into the politics of misinformation, it is a counter-attack against the conspiracy and all those who dispute certain affirmations, such as Space missions to the moon, or the existence of the atomic bomb, insinuating that there are people who dispute even the most obvious notions.

Indeed the sphericity of the earth has been known for several centuries may be even before our era, The signs of the sphericity of the globe is clearly visible to the naked eye and we do not even need to go to space or to 'send artificial satellites to strengthen it, but this concept of sphericity has been rejected by many peoples throughout history because of lack of understanding of the concept of gravity , people find it impossible that the earth a sphere and at the same time the objects stand on it.

But the true causes of this debate comes in particular from the maps of globes put into circulation, in principle it is impossible to reproduce a map of a significant part of the globe on a map, when the mapped part is a few hundred kilometers in size. It can be reproduced approximately on a plan, but when the mapped area is several thousand kilometers in size, it results in major distortions, the representation of the terrestrial globe as well as the continents and their distribution on the globe has many differences per source. Very large following sources, which aggravates this problem is the lack of credible photographs of the globe from space, as it turned out that many of these pictures put into circulation are simply drawings, some NASA pictures alleged from the earth from space turned out just mountings even maps and GPS data slightly different from the usual maps and reality, this situation can not be explained by the non-sphericity of the earth, but may be to hide certain areas of the globes or unfolds strange activities or hide the existence of islands or land not shown in the maps.

Making maps is a very complex and expensive operation and requires months and years of measurements on the ground by mobilizing dozens or hundreds of technicians, and even this kind of maps will contain many errors, everything that can be determined astronomical observations are the latitudes, whereas from space all the continents will be visible with their true dimensions as well as the islands and their real positions in the sea. Perhaps the map of the world presented is in fact that part of the actual map of this world.

4 . The Space Conquest

Space conquest is a reality, it has now entered the field of private companies, even amateurs are already doing small feats with their craft rockets that reach higher altitudes.

The space age began since the 16th century with scientific and astronomical discoveries as the universal attraction, the laws of celestial mechanics. The pioneers of the space conquest were Newton, Galileo, Kepler and a long list of physicists and mathematicians and astronomers.

The first one who dreamed of going into space or more precisely going to the moon was Jule Verne, his idea is to send men to the moon with the help of a big gun, this idea unfortunately is not feasible and suffers from a lot of problems. To send an object to the moon it takes a very large gun and he can send this object with a high speed that is around 10 km / s, which is impossible to achieve with conventional explosives. On the other hand no living being can support the acceleration out of this launch.

It was only after the end of the Second World War that space acquired a very important interest for the great powers, they knew that it could be used as a platform of espionage, the one that managed to putting orbiting artificial satellites around the earth will have a continuous look at everything that is happening on the surface of the globe. But since that time until now the only tool that humans have to regain space is the rockets, their uses and their operating principle was known for a long time, their great advantage is that they work at high altitude altitudes or planes can not reach them because of lack of oxygen and even it can operate in space. The Nazi Germans are the first to develop rocket technology to use as a weapon of war, although the rocket appears simple in principle its development is a highly complex area that integrates all scientific and technical fields that it is the chemistry, metallurgy, mechanics, kinematics, astronomy, electronics etc. Etc. It is certain that the Germans have managed to make reliable rockets capable of reaching targets hundreds of miles away impossible to reach with the heaviest artillery and guns. The Americans as well as the Russians have put their hands on this new technology to use it either for the development of missiles or in the space field.

Rocket technology certainly has limitations, if it can go out of the Earth's atmosphere and put artificial satellites into orbit, it does not allow humans to travel easily in space as NASA claims.

Indeed the rockets usually only allow one way without return, to send a payload in the space of a few hundred kilograms it was necessary to use a large rocket of several floors and several tons of cabin plus several tons of fuel and oxidizer to be able to give this payload the necessary speed that it allows him to orbit around the globe.

For many years, many researchers have doubted the Apollo program and other space missions, because they thought they were so complex and full of technological challenges insurmountable given the technological means of the time and even today.

According to NASA the Apollo mission to be feasible it must be done in several steps:

- 1) To leave the terrestrial atmosphere with a sufficient speed, this stage is carried out by two stages which represent the majority of the weight of the whole rocket.
- 2) Make corrections for orbiting circular orbit around the earth.
- 3) To launch towards the moon starting from a precise point of the orbit and in a precise direction, it is with the help of third stage that this stage is carried out, the duration of the impulse is of a few tens minutes, so even minor errors will create big problems in the next steps.
- 4) When the module enters the lunar gravitational field that is to say within 35 thousand kilometers it must make the motors work to become orbitalized around the moon and before making a half turn on it it has to make operate engines to orbit themselves in a circular orbit.
- 5) After the module has orbited around the moon in a circular orbit or almost, the Lem will be able to detach itself from module and undertake a descent on the Moon. The landing of the Lem on the moon is a dangerous operation because it is calculated by the amount of fuel available. If he finishes his fuel before touching the ground he will crash on the moon, if he arrives to ground with a not insignificant speed he will be unable to brake and will crash on the ground unless the engine of Lem has a wide range of adjustable push.
- 6) The same problem arises when the Lem leaves the lunar ground, this stage is so complex because on the moon there is no guidance network as on the earth, the Lem must be orbital zed exactly or at maximum some hundreds of meters on the same orbit of control module which is almost impossible in a vast space of thousands of kilometers without a reliable positioning technique. The astronauts had to install a network of two or three drumsticks on the moon several kilometers away to provide guidance. It is impossible to perform this task from the earth because of the distance, so it is impossible to achieve it based on the inertia data and gyroscopes due to accumulation of errors.

On land even the most seasoned pilots find it difficult to find their way without radar and navigation techniques, and landing aircraft in poor visibility is always surrounded by danger. The miracle is that the Apollo astronauts managed the moon landing and a perfect takeoff by performing them for the first time!

The Apollo mission is very complex and the margin of error and almost zero, in addition that a small errors even minimal will lead the whole mission to the disaster, because the technology of the rockets offer very limited possibilities, all the space conquest is based on the laws of ballistics.

For the lunar module to reach the moon, it must be launched at a speed greater than 10 Km / s, the closer the module approaches the moon, the lower its speed, it will enter the gravitational zone of the moon with a low speed to be able to orbit around the moon with less energy. Leaving the lunar orbit the modulus velocity will reach at the arrival on earth a velocity close to 10 km / s, which is the same speed from the earth; either the module must decrease its speed to an acceptable level, or enter directly into the Earth's atmosphere with this high speed and the risk of disintegration into the atmosphere is inevitable, leaving the moon to earth the lunar module will perform a elliptical orbit that must be calculated accurately from the start so that the perigee is exactly in the upper layers of the atmosphere in a specific area, talk about the angle of entry has no physical meaning.

Indeed, this atmospheric reentry is in fact only the prolongation of a highly elliptical orbit whose perigee is in the earth's atmosphere, this re-entry this characterizes by a speed which increases continuously, any braking will lead the capsule sank moreover in addition in the lower layers which are denser and increase more braking, it is done with more than 10 km / s that is to say in 20 seconds the capsule will cross a path of more than 200 km.

The maximum acceleration that can support a man is of the order of 3g, admittedly it can be supported more but it is very dangerous for only a few seconds. to cancel the speed of 10 Km / s or reduce it to a few tens of meters per second with a negative acceleration of 6g which is twice that tolerable the calculation shows that it takes more than 160 seconds:

$$10\,000 \text{ m/s} = a \cdot t \quad a = 6 \cdot g = 60 \text{ m/S}^2$$

$$t = 10\,000 / 60 = 160 \text{ seconds.}$$

The distance traveled is calculated by the formula:

$$z = \frac{1}{2} \cdot a \cdot t^2 = \frac{1}{2} \cdot 60 \cdot 160^2 = 768\,000 \text{ m} = 768 \text{ Km}$$

The distance traveled is nearly 800 km, but the atmospheric layer is no more than 50 km thick war because already 20 km altitude the atmosphere is very rarefied, in fact the return must be done horizontally gradually sinking into the lower layer of the atmosphere, but according to NASA this return is uncontrollable and it is done in a natural way under the effect of the laws of gravity and friction.

We can clearly see the great difficulty of reducing this high speed, which poses two essential problems:

- 1) the reduction of the speed of the capsule by more than 10 Km / s considering the low thickness of the atmosphere if it is used alone. On the other hand the density of the atmosphere increases exponentially with the decrease in altitude.
- 2) the strong negative accelerations that must be used to reduce the speed of the capsule represents a real danger for the astronauts as well as the capsule itself.

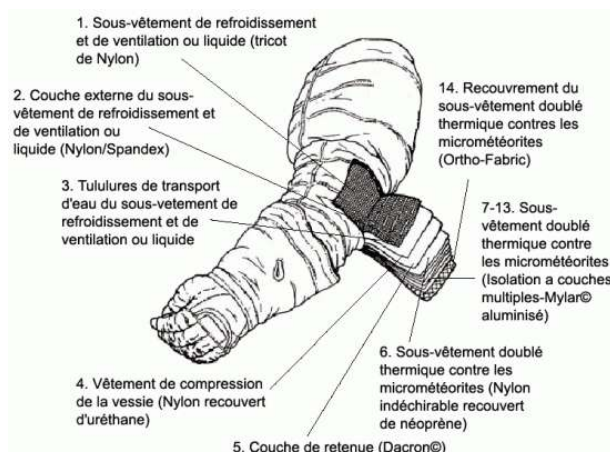

In addition an atmospheric input with a high speed has the effect of excessive heating which is very dangerous.

It seems that the Americans have never solved the problem of atmospheric reentry in a satisfactory way, the only returns made are those of the space shuttle which evolves in a low circular orbit and probably this re-entry was always preceded by a braking by rockets, despite all precautions a Spaceship is disintegrated during the atmospheric reentry. As a result the United States has suspended all the flights of these Spaceship.

Many people wonder why NASA, a large state agency, has been lying about imaginary exploits that will sooner or later come to light, the answer lies in a rotten political elite who wanted to impress public opinion with lies, On the other hand, the Americans, in alliance with extraterrestrial entities, believed that these entities will provide them with space technology.

The missions of Apollo have been analyzed well especially the images and the videos which included several incoherence's, all suggests that these missions were realized simply in a movie studio. The takeoff of Apollo 11a was quite long due to engine problems, many researchers who analyzed the video of this takeoff think it will be unable even to orbit low orbit.

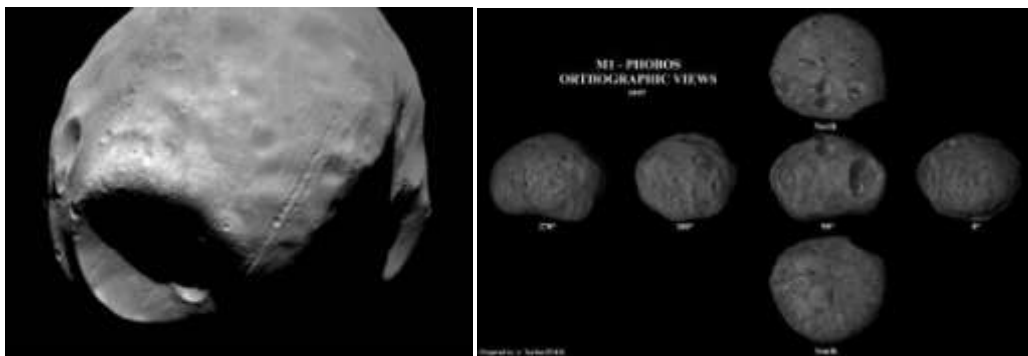

Another important fact that few people have paid attention to is the space suits and the ease with which astronauts move on the moon, indeed this combination as described by NASA is made of several layers of various fabrics and materials to protect the astronauts of various radiation and in addition it is pressurized, in the emptiness it reigns inside the combination a pressure of 1 bar.

As a result it is impossible for astronauts to move, the suit being inflated it is similar to a truck tire, NASA claims that the space suit is inflated only to 0.3 bar to facilitate the movements of astronauts, indeed even at this pressure it will greatly hinder their movements. On the other hand, a pressure of 0.3 bar corresponds to more than 8000 meters of altitude which exceeds widely the reasonable pressure especially in a closed suit, it is known that for the man to support a low pressure it must be done gradually on many days and even weeks, so the astronauts must have evolved in a low-pressure environment on Earth and regain the capsule before launch and remain under this pressure during all stages of the mission until their return.

Lunar missions are only spectacle to impress people because the use of low pressure for astronauts is dangerous and will greatly harm their health and especially their mental abilities, and therefore put the whole mission in danger, breathing at low pressure is very difficult not only because of the lack of oxygen as some claim but because of the decrease in its solubility in the blood plasma, on the other hand the low pressure has the effect of increased vaporization of the water in the lungs which will greatly affect respiration.

The same thing concerning different space missions, for example the Viking1 mission which photographed the satellite Phobos of Mars, this picture shows how ignorant are those who drew it, they show a small pebble with a huge crater. This single photo shows NASA's high degree of lies and, as a result, that it is only a large state agency whose only role is to impress people with lies.

Indeed this hole has the consequence of exploding this satellite in several pieces, on the other hand the trajectory of Phobos is circular like most of the celestial bodies of solar system, if Phobos had really received this impressive blow which printed this great crater on its floor it should definitely left its orbit and is lost in space or at least its trajectory will be strongly modified in elliptical orbit which is not the case. On the other hand according to NASA, he claims that the lander sent a photo of the Martian soil to the earth just after a few tens of seconds of his landing, already the minimum distance separating the earth of Mars is more than 80 million of kilometers and that it is necessary to transmit rigorously towards the earth with a sufficient power to be captured, the emission can not be done immediately by means of the orbiter because it is in rotation around Mars and during the descent | The orbiter will be far removed from the lander gear coverage area, and there are many problems to be solved for the orbiter to constantly direct its antenna to the earth.

5 . Atomic Bomb & Aliens

The history of the atomic bomb began with the discovery of NEUTRON by the physicist Chadwick in 1932, it was inspired by the work done in 1930 by the physicists Walther W.Bothe and H.Becker, bombarding the beryllium with particles alpha they produced a very penetrating neutral radiation, the same experiments were taken by the Joliot-Curie physicists without being able to determine the real nature of this radiation, it is Chadwick who was able to discover that this radiation is in fact a neutral particle of a mass close to that of the proton, it was called the Neutron.

Experiments continued to be carried out during the following years, especially the bombardment of various elements by neutrons which led to the discovery for the first time of the transmutation of the elements, this period is known by the explosion of physical knowledge especially in regarding the structure of the atom and the phenomena related to radioactivity.

Without going into the physical details that physicists have found that the neutron can be absorbed by a nucleus of an atom, however its probability is so low, we seek the best conditions for a neutron to be absorbed they found that the Absorption increases noticeably when an obstacle is interposed between the neutron source and the target which is against the expectation of physicists, this absorption differs according to the interposed obstacle, it takes considerable values using paraffin.

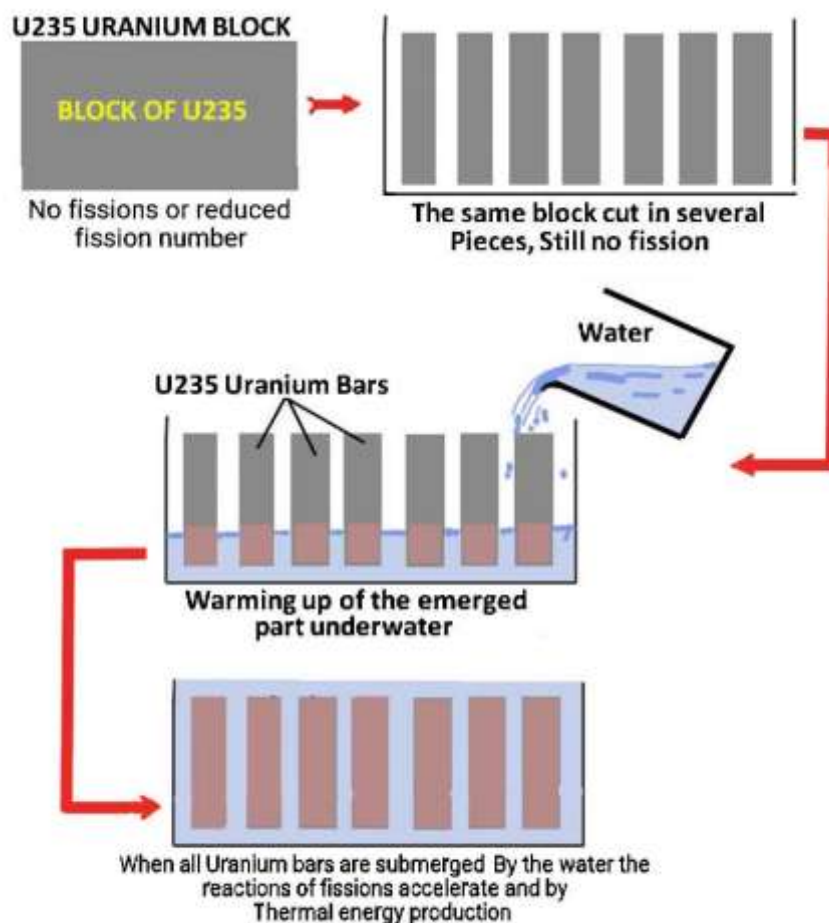

The same experiments were carried out on various elements among them Uranium, it is only in 1938 that it is realized the first fission of a uranium atom U235 by neutrons. The fission of Uranium releases a large amount of energy and at the same time frees in the average two neutrons which can in turn fission other nuclei, this is where the evil spirits think they can exploit this phenomenon in the construction of a kind of bomb.

But things are not so simple, the neutron is a very penetrating particle that is to say that it interacts weakly with the matter, the faster neutrons are they are penetrating, they cross several centimeters of matter without entering in collision with an atom, on the other hand, the slower the neutron, the more it interacts with matter. Thus the chain reaction in the manner of a chemical reaction is totally excluded since the neutron is still able to cross a certain distance without interacting, this is called the Neutron's free course which depends on its speed and the material crossed. To increase the chance of interaction of neutrons with matter and especially with the other U235 uranium atoms, they must necessarily be slowed by appropriate materials.

So the fission of uranium can only be done with slow neutrons because it is in this case that they have an acceptable probability of causing other fissions, unfortunately this fission produce in the average two extremely fast neutrons that cross the material without being able to fission other uranium nuclei unless they have to be slowed by a moderator, that's exactly what it does in a nuclear reactor, it is always necessary a moderator if not the nuclear reaction simply stops, indeed the moderator is it that allows the nuclear reaction to continue and not as some think that the moderator prevents the reactor from racing.

In fact the expression of chain reaction is erroneous, it is actually a sustained reaction, the same thing for the expression of controlled reaction which can be understood that the nuclear reactions are uncontrollable and that it is several factors are required to be controlled, the opposite is true, the fission reactions are very difficult and it takes several factors to maintain this reaction, it to gather all the possible conditions for this reaction is maintained and that the maximum of the neutrons resulting from fissions in turn fission uranium atoms.

The first nuclear reaction was carried out on December 2, 1942; it must be emphasized and remembers the date of December 2, 1942. This reaction took place in the first nuclear reactor experimental called at the time atomic pile is the physicist fermi with his team that manufactured this loot using the bricks of uranium using graphite bricks as moderator, although this pile has several tons of materials, it had a very low power of a few tens of Watts maximum, some even say that its power was less than 1 Watt.

At the time, nuclear power was a new and unknown domain, few physicists have access to new discoveries, most of them were in the big Western countries that is to say Germany, France, England, Italy and the United States, most of the scientific knowledge in the nuclear field was still in the framework of studies and experiments, despite all this the US president launches a gigantic project called Manhattan for the construction of an atomic bomb, which is strange in this case is that politicians seem he knew much more about nuclear physics and energy than any physicist of the world. At the time, the Americans had put enormous resources at the disposal of this project by relying on a letter from physicist Albert Einstein and information from the intelligence services on the feasibility of the bomb. Indeed, many physicists at the time doubted the possibility of triggering a rapid chain reaction in uranium, because without moderator nuclear reactions are less likely and impossible to maintain.

In reality, the Manhattan project was a Pharaonic project not for the manufacture of the atomic bomb, but to produce the different isotopes of plutonium and other important isotopes, it was simply an ALIEN project aimed at supplying nuclear fuel to the extraterrestrial entities installed on earth to face the attacks of the Venusians, the most likely is that the project itself became operational only in 1944, it is impossible during two and a half years for the Americans to have been able to obtain sufficient quantities of uranium ore, and to process and build the factories and machines that must be built for the first time. Plutonium can only be produced in operating nuclear reactors after several months of operation and it is unlikely that in a short time the Americans were able to produce the necessary amount of plutonium to build two bombs one experimental and the other dropped on Nagasaki. Add to that the amount of Uranium-235 needed to make the bomb dropped on Hiroshima. The Americans claim that the atomic bomb with plutonium is more complex than that of uranium and therefore they have to test the simplest bomb before going to the most complex. It seems that these tests and all subsequent tests on alleged nuclear explosions are intended to simply hide the diversion of nuclear fuel that is apparently going to be delivered to the entities installed on Earth.

Most of the nuclear fuel processing and enrichment plants and buildings were probably not operational until the summer of 1944 or even 1945, a few months before the first nuclear test!

Obtaining plutonium 239 at Oak Ridge and Hanford

The acquisition of plutonium first involved the design and construction of nuclear reactors and secondly the possibility of separating ^{239}Pu from other by-products of irradiation. Two types of reactors were studied in parallel: U natural and heavy water in Columbia and U enriched / graphite and air or gas. On December 2, 1942, a team led by Enrico Fermi unleashed the first artificial nuclear chain reaction under the bleachers of the University of Chicago football stadium. At the Oak Ridge site in late 1942, Du Pont began the construction of pilot plants: an air-cooled natural U-reactor / graphite (code X-10) built in 11 months, a ^{239}Pu chemical separation plant, and the necessary support facilities. By the end of November 1943, 500 mg of plutonium had been produced, but not yet separated from other "waste". On the Hanford site, the construction of the first of the 6 planned reactors began in February 1944. The first irradiated elements were extracted from the heart on November 24, 1944 and the plutonium separated in January 1945. The first 720 g arrived on February 2 in Los Alamos.

Indeed, it is well known today that the enrichment of Uranium is a very slow and delicate operation, at the time we had no idea of the most efficient method, and in any case the uranium U235 rate does not represent more than 0.7% of the natural uranium, the diffusion methods or the use of the centrifuges indeed makes it possible to enrich Uranium but it requires enormous quantities of Uranium because the more one progresses in the enrichment the more the enriched quantity becomes smaller and smaller with other quantities of uranium at various enrichment rates, the only method that allows the direct separation of isotopes is mass spectroscopy, and large spectrometers with giant electromagnets must be built, and the production will not exceed a few grams per day, today the most method is the use of centrifuges and even this technique was not at the time mastered nor used by the Americans.

In fact, the Manhattan project had the sole purpose of producing and supplying nuclear fuel to the entities located on earth while the manufacture of atomic bombs was only a façade and a pretext to legitimize its existence, the feasibility of an atomic bomb is even today disputed, many researchers doubt about the real existence of this weapon, and all the photos and videos of the alleged nuclear explosions are montages of the classic explosions, many documents on the internet treat this side in detail, Similarly, the photos of Hiroshima and Nagasaki show only intense bombardment similar to that seen on other cities bombed during the Second World War, there is absolutely no trace of a giant crater that can testify to a supernatural explosion.

In theory we know that the fission that it is a nucleus of uranium U235 or plutonium Pu239 will generate fast neutrons which are very penetrating impossible that they will trigger a reaction in chain or more exactly to maintain the nuclear reaction, the notion of criticality depends basically the moderators used, the atomic bomb in this case will be similar to a nuclear reactor no more, the notion of reaching the critical mass assembling fissile fuel is not based on anything concrete, a neutron has a free course according to its energy and the material it passes through, the more it crosses the material the more it is likely to fission another nucleus, in a spherical mass of fissile fuel, the surface area will be more reactive than the deep zones because it is in this the area where the neutrons have gone through more matter, and in this zone the neutrons are ready to leave the fuel.

The most intriguing in the Manhattan project is its greed for Plutonium, because according to the Americans the atomic bomb can be made by any fissile element be it U235 or P239, but the plutonium can only be made in a nuclear reactor in operation for several months, in addition the amount of plutonium produced will always be lower than the amount of fissile uranium U235 used for its generation. That is to say, we consume more uranium that can be used to make a bomb to produce plutonium monk to make the same bomb, which makes no sense.

It was on August 15, 1947 that the Manhattan project was stopped, and it is not coincidentally that this year has seen a surge of UFO phenomena and flying saucer crash in the United States, it is clear that the US were forced to stop this dubious project, probably they were seriously threatened by the Venusians to stop the project, those who worked in this project had no idea of these real goals, everything was planned by Aliens who collaborate with a rotten political elite, physicists were called to give the project a human aspect and use the atomic bomb as a pretext to ensure the supremacy of America but the reality is that the Manhattan Project was founded to serve the interests of the entities installed on earth, indeed, already Edward Ruppelt had pointed out in his book that some physicists did not believe in the feasibility of the atomic bomb, he also pointed out that there was a link between radioactivity and some UFOs.

Historians rely on a letter sent by Albert Einstein to President American claiming the possibility of the construction of a bomb of atomic of phenomenal power, which pushed the Americans to run to its construction, indeed Einstein was a scammer and that all these works had stolen from other physicists, he was rewarded for his attitude by an unprecedented media coverage in his favor as the great scientist of all times. Einstein claims in his letter sent to the President that he was aware of all the scientific advances in the nuclear field which is totally against the scientific traditions, because everyone ensures that these works are in a very private setting until they are officially presented for reasons of intellectual property, more Einstein was not involved in any nuclear research activity, the strangest is that Einstein informs the US President of the presence of a uranium deposit the most rich on the planet that comes out totally of the qualities of a theoretical physicist.

6 . The Planet Venus

The planet Venus is known for a long time, it is visible from the earth, it is an inner planet that is closer to the sun than the earth, so it is always close to the sun, we can not observe that for a very short time after sunset or before sunrise, however its observation has always show a uniform white planet, it is only in recent centuries that astronomers have been able to reveal that this planet has a atmosphere and that it is covered with a probably thick cloud layer that constantly hides its surface, afterwards we observe Venus by powerful telescopes astronomers were able to observe the existence of spots or bands on this cloud layer, indeed Venus has a strong albedo that is to say more than 70% of solar radiation is reflected by the clouds, so even if there are areas of the surface not covered by clouds it is impossible to see out anything because of the dazzling light reflected by the clouds.

685 BC J.-C - Identity explicitly recognized in Babylon of Venus, evening star, and Venus, morning star.

1610 - Discovery of the phases of Venus, by Galileo.

1639 - First documented observation of a transit of Venus in front of the Sun.

1666 - Cassini estimates at around 24 hours the rotation of Venus.

1726-27 - Venusian Planisphere of Bianchini.

1761, 1769, 1874, 1882 – Large expeditions through the world to observe the following passages in order to measure the parallax of the Sun. Studies of the Venusian atmosphere, during the last two of these transits.

1890 - Schiaparelli and others opt for a rotation of 225 days approximately.

1962 - First flyby of the planet, by the probe Mariner 2.

1975 - First images of the Venusian soil by the probe Venera 9.

The planet Venus has always been a subject of controversy about what happens beneath these clouds and also on their nature, it is Cassini who is the first to try to determine the rotation of Venus by proposing 24 hours, this measure was rejected from the beginning, another astronomer suggested that it turns slowly during a Venusian year, other have proposed that it presents the same face to the sun, but nothing has been confirmed.

As far as the nature of the Venusian atmosphere is concerned, the first suggestions thought that it had almost the same density as the earth's atmosphere. But everyone agreed that Venus has an atmosphere and that it is covered with a thick layer of clouds, which says clouds called water droplets, unless we see is dust or all other matter, the first spectral analyzes revealed nothing, the light reflected by the clouds is simply that of the sun.

((In the fifties and sixties, Venus was still Surrounded by a halo of mystery and poetry ... before the progress of astronomy and observation satellites do not demystify The Star of the Shepherd. It is therefore not surprising that some authors suggest the existence of a civilization Extraterrestrial.))

It was not until 1960 that the scientists looked that came is a dead planet with extremely high temperatures on the ground, despite that there were many doubts about these suggestions that will be analyzed in detail, as well as the physical methods by which they were determined.

With the arrival of the space age the Americans launched several probes towards Venus which confirmed these suppositions and at the same time put an end to all the suggestions and the oppositions, because the Americans and especially the Russians claim that they launched probes to Venus and that some of these probes were able to land on the surface of this planet and that they have measured the temperature on the ground as well as the pressure, and consequently they confirmed that this planet is arid or reigns an infernal temperature moreover 400 ° C.

What is curious is that no one is able to explain scientifically and clearly why Venus has this temperature on the ground, scientists respond with a vague expression is meaningless it is the greenhouse effect that to cause this disproportionate increase in temperature because its atmosphere is composed mainly of CO₂. We understand later the reasons for this noise caused by some on the role of CO₂ on the temperature that is on earth.

In addition they declare that the cloudy layer of the atmosphere of Venus is composed almost exclusively of droplets of sulfuric acid and some proportions of hydrochloric acid. All these data have no foundation, it's simply a lie because neither CO₂ nor H₂SO₄ nor HCl can survive in an atmosphere that experiences intense sunshine, as these compounds easily decompose under the solar radiation rich in ultra violet, the atmosphere of Venus should be of the same nature as the earth's atmosphere, only distant planets their atmosphere can contain complex compounds such as methane, ammonia etc. Almost all terrestrial oxygen comes from the decomposition of water and carbon dioxide from volcanic activity. Scientists claim that the only source of oxygen in the earth's atmosphere is photosynthesis, which binds carbon of carbon dioxide and releases oxygen, but plant activity will never be able to reduce carbon dioxide levels to almost zero, all other heterogeneous molecules are absent in the atmosphere such as SO₂, CH₄. If the atmosphere of Venus contains SO₂ it will be the same for the Earth's atmosphere because SO₂ sources also exist on Earth. The only explanation for the absence of these heterogeneous molecules is that they can not exist because of solar radiation and it will be the same for the planet Venus.

At first the earth had no atmosphere; it was only after the internal warming of the globe and the onset of volcanic activity that its formation began. The totality of the earth's atmosphere is derived from volcanic gases, the same seas and oceans are derived from volcanic gases that contains more than 80% of water vapor.

	Volcanic Gaz in %
H₂O	83 ± 3
CO₂	12 ± 4
N₂	5 ± 3

There are also other gases but with minimal proportions such as SO₂, H₂S, CO etc.

Nitrogen is an inert gas with little chemical reactivity, it accumulates in the atmosphere, CO₂ and H₂O decompose and release oxygen, however the quantity of water released by volcanoes is enormous it condenses in liquid water while that the CO₂ remaining in the atmosphere can only undergo ultraviolet photolysis. Liquid water is more stable to ultraviolet action than when it is in the gaseous state.

The table below shows that the gases from volcanoes have almost the same composition of gases from a meteorite (chondrite) when heated.

	Volcanic Gas	Meteorite Gas
Water	83 %	80 %
Carbon Dioxide	12 %	15 %
Nitrogen	5 %	5 %
Oxygen	0 %	0 %
Others	1 % - 2 %	1 % - 2 %

The CO2 level in volcanic gases is not as important, it is the same as nitrogen while NASA claims that its rate in the atmosphere of Venus does not exceed 3.5% which is against the table above which indicates that the figures put forward by this organization do not agree with the scientific realities. It is well known that CO2 decomposes under the action of the ultraviolet itself, even though this reality is rarely reported in scientific literature, it also tends to polymerize by releasing oxygen. A large part of oxygen released by the decomposition of H2O and CO2 oxide FeO to Fe2O3, indeed the large expanses of red earth of the planet are the result of the oxidation of FeO by atmospheric oxygen in Fe2O3 red color, volcanic magma is actually reductive.

Composition Basalte	SiO ₂	Al ₂ O ₃	Fe ₂ O ₃	FeO	MgO	CaO	Na ₂ O	K ₂ O	H₂O
Taux %	50	15	3,9	7,3	7	10,2	2	0,3	0

The problem is that the data presented by NASA are against all the previous observations of this planet, they do not speak anymore of the presence of poles strongly brilliant and well delimited, they affirm that the temperature is the same on all the planet indifferently attitudes and that it is in the illuminated face or the face in the shadow which is insane. These statements are simply unfounded to hide the reality of this planet, especially when we know that the rotation of the cloud layer of Venus was unknown or ignored for a long time until 1957 when Charles Boyer amateur astronomer discovered it by observing Venus in ultraviolet, this cloud layer turns in four days, this rotation was well confirmed by him in 1964, although this observation was made with simple instruments the scientific community rejected it outright, it is only in 1974 that the Mariner10 probe has confirmed this discovery, Indeed the observation of the rotation of the cloud layer of Venus is accessible to amateurs and does not require the sending of a probe that costs several million dollars, and how this observation was unnoticed by hundreds of professional astronomers who have telescopes of several meters in diameter and various materials?

The temperature of 400 °C on the ground of Venus is impossible is inconceivable because there must be an intense source of heat on the ground to justify this temperature, moreover for every planet there are two sources of energy, one internal it is very weak because the soil is insulating, the energy of the sub soil is derived from the radioactivity of the radioactive elements, it is of low power, it is the thermal insulation of the soil over millions of years that has allowed the interior to reach high temperatures. The second source is the sun, but a large part of solar radiation is reflected by the cloud layer of Venus, moreover this layer prevents much of the radiation from reaching the Venusian soil. The greenhouse effect of which many scientists speak makes sense only for a small and isolated space which receives heat and at the same time finds difficulty in evacuating it, there can never be a greenhouse effect in a large-scale atmosphere open to space as there will always be currents of convections that will evacuate heat to the outside.

The presence of this permanent cloud layer in the atmosphere of Venus does not imply the impossibility of the existence of liquid phase on the ground, on the earth more than 60% of the globe is covered with clouds . Thus more than 80% of the seas and oceans are under clouds. On the other hand, the observation of the planet of Venus for a long time after the use of large telescopes had always revealed the existence of spots on its atmosphere.

The presence of this cloud layer that covers the planet of Venus will result in a stable and constant ground temperature or with slight fluctuations, it will prevent the soil from losing energy by radiation but it will never be able to thermally isolate it a complete way, in a fluid that it is liquid or gaseous there is always currents of convection.

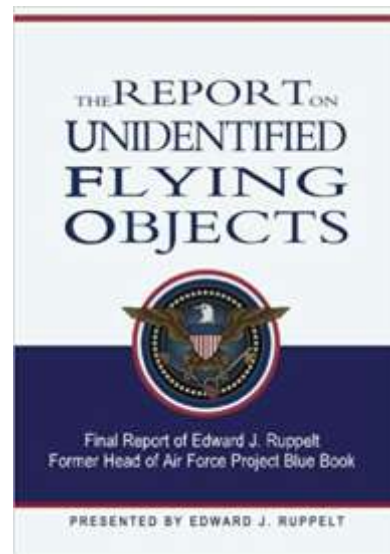

NASA had previously stated that it was able to determine the rotation of Venus by radar from the ground which is highly unlikely given the distance that separates Venus from the earth and the cloud layer of its atmosphere, it is necessary to have high powers to achieve this task. The power of military radar is of the order of several megawatts carrying their range is a few hundred kilometers only.

The Russian Venera missions have no credibility, it certainly comes within the framework of the lies of the space conquest, the Americans and the Russians share among themselves the lies of the space exploits. The Russians themselves claimed that their probes transmit the data just after their landings and that they stop later because of the high temperature on the ground, they give no explanation on how these data have come from Venus to earth without problems because of the distance between the two planets and the impossibility of the probe that is on the ground of Venus to communicate with the earth, it does not have a parabola, while the orbiter turns into orbit on Venus and after the descent of the lander he will be on the other side of the planet. Communications on land are very problematic, even if it were only tens or hundreds of kilometers, to communicate tens of millions of kilometers you need heavy equipment and use high power.

7. The UFOs

1. The Beginning

UFOs were still a subject of controversy, dozens or even hundreds of books were published in all languages without being able to uncover the mystery of this phenomenon, some of these books are intended simply to discredit the subject, others ridicule all those who are interested, others were content to report dozens of testimonials that bring nothing if not increase confusion. However an interesting book that had treated this phenomenon at the time with great objectivity is (the report on unidentified flying objects) from Edward Ruppelt.

It is not by chance that it is the most important book for more than 60 years so far, because the author of this book was a captain in the army who directed himself the PROJECT BLEU BOOK an organization American official destined to study the phenomenon.

The book itself seemed commonplace as the rest of the books dealing with the subject of UFOs, but by reading it carefully we discover that it contains a lot of key information on this subject, he says that the authorities were from the beginning annoyed by the presence of UFOs and that they thought that this case is temporary and that soon no one will hear more of it, the authorities from the beginning was against UFOs and he had no desire that these devices are real, to this time the flying saucers did not stop to fly over American airspace all the time especially the military bases and the industrial zones, the fighter planes did not stop pursuing them every time they were reported, the American fighters were qualified by Ruppelt in front of the flying saucers like wooden horses, they never managed to reach them, the flying saucers are moving at high speeds and with great acceleration, and the fighter planes are still running out of fuel even before launching a chase while these saucers fly over several areas hundreds of kilometers away and relentlessly . Ruppelt was astonished at the attitude of the authorities to this situation of such magnitude.

The history of UFOs began in 1947 in the United States after Arnold observed disks flying over a mountain range, indeed the observations were well before him either by the population or the authorities, but as long as he was his pilot. This observation deserved a lot of attention by the media and especially that the observations of these disks continued throughout the following months and years. The reality is that these observations were so frequent that it is useless to remain silent, the American authorities have always chosen to take the stick in the middle, they try to minimize and discredit the observations or to discredit them without ever denying their existence.

It is certain that from the beginning the Americans and probably other governments knew all the details about this history, they knew the origin of the visitors, their nature, where they come from, and that it was their goal.

These vehicles or flying saucers actually exist, there is no doubt, and they are military in the broad sense of the term without being aggressive; but where do they come from? And what is their purpose? These vehicles are not of human construction, they possess a very advanced technology, on the other hand the whole earth is colonized by humans, so the existence of an advanced civilization somewhere on earth is excluded except for its hidden for one reason or another, so these vehicles probably come from outside the earth.

Although there is no doubt about the existence of these flying vehicles, this phenomenon is highly resistant to study and observation, the phenomenon is complex and has several components, some of which only deceive, play the diversion and add confusion.

Since the beginning of persistent rumors speak that some of these flying saucers came from the planet Venus, but at the time this astronomical information have no impact on the majority of people, for some they are vehicles that came from space and whether it's Venus or Mars or another planet makes no difference, and that's when the Americans did everything to hide the truth. long ago is known that the only planet that can shelter a life was Venus, the earth and Venus are almost the same size, all the other planets are by far unable to fulfill the necessary conditions of life as we know it, Mercury is a small star too close to the sun without atmosphere, Mars is also a small planet far away from the sun or reigns intense cold, the other planets are excluded from any discussion, however Venus was a long time controversial, being more sun loan could make it uninhabitable.

The flying saucers that swarm in our atmosphere are engines of a technology that exceed our knowledge, the Americans never deny their existence, but at the same time they did everything to discredit the observations, they did everything to ensure that there is a climate of confusion to hide their true nature and sow doubt about their existence, because they thought from the beginning that this business will die sooner and later and that these machines will desert our atmosphere.

The same attitude was taken by all the governments of the world, the countries of the east they categorically denied their existence.

Although the phenomenon was known by the authorities several years or decades before 1947 they chose to remain silent and firmly oppose all who put his nose in this subject, many researchers and Ufologists have focused on this subject and many studies have been done and many books on this subject have been published without being able to draw any useful information, all go around in circles, most of the publications treat the subject without even confirming its reality, others try timidly to prove the existence of flying saucers by various stories and testimonies. The more we plunge into stories and testimonies, the more we lose ourselves.

At the beginning there were certainly misunderstandings in the higher spheres of the American state between those who want the truth to be declared and those who are against. Those with the disclosure believe that the earth is being invaded by extraterrestrials and that it is necessary to prepare for the event, but those who are against knew very well that the problem is so complex and that exceeds humans who do not represent anything in a conflict between Venusians and other extraterrestrial entities on Earth. For the authorities this problem does not interest them since they are not with or against the warring parties, but the reality and all the political structures on earth are allied with the entities installed on earth. Authorities have chosen to remain silent until humans and their facilities are attacked by Venusians.

The Americans each time were about to declare war against the Venusians, but they knew they had no opportunity to face them if not to use the technology of the entities installed on Earth, and we understand the series of lies about the space conquest, and technological capability of Americans, indeed they expected that at least these entities will provide them with spacecraft by claiming that these gears are the result of American technology, but these demonic entities do not have never trusted American authorities, they were content to use humans as mercenaries in their war.

Every time senior American officials insinuated that it is possible that the earth is the subject of an extraterrestrial invasion and that it must be prepared. President Harry Truman had given orders to shoot down the intruders, this policy was pursued under Eisenhower despite the fact that visitor technology far exceeds the rudimentary means of humans, the Americans were always hostile to UFOs' presence, it is a principle for them, the American general MacArthur Douglas also made two public declaration concerning the possibility of an extraterrestrial invasion and at the same time had incited the nations of all the earth to unite their efforts against these intruders!! Similarly, there were rumors that Kennedy's assassination was related to UFOs. President Reagan, too, had told the United Nations that an alien attack would result in the unification of the peoples of the earth, forgetting all their hostilities to themselves. The most serious of which is President Trump's statement on the constitution of a force of space, the Americans do not have the technological means to have a space force unless the entities will provide them with space materials, and in this case the United States will be a legitimate target by the Venusians who are at war against these entities. Indeed the Venusians knew for a long time that there is a cooperation between the Americans and the entities installed on earth but they will not close their eyes if the Americans will become a complementary strength working in the pay of these entities.

Probably much of the Venusians war machine is automated and relies heavily on artificial intelligence, but the land-based entities were content with their army of slave soldiers made up of humans and mutants made from human genomes and other terrestrial animals. It seems that they are unable to cope with the war machine of the Venusians.

((Legends! let's move on to a more modern science: astronomer John Krauss of the University of Ohio assured captured June 2, 1956 Signals From Venus. This unverifiable fact remained unverified. But he was considered, The time, as one more proof for the materialistic ufologists.))

2. The Contacted

The CIA and the FBI did everything to hide this case, they used misinformation on a large scale, they knew it could not prevent certain information from escaping, so the only weapon for them is to discredit all that can filter out the secret mesh, the proper method is to wrap the truth with a huge amount of lies and nonsense so that the whole will lose its credibility. It was at this point that the alleged Contacted appeared, in fact they were agents who worked at the CIA sales to discredit the rumors and information that filtered from different organizations, the high profile that has accompanied these contacted and the significant means available to them prove that they were from the beginning supported by the authorities.

Adamski

Menger

One of the pioneers contacted was George Adamski, he is the professor of the contacted, he claims that he spent sleepless nights at Mount Palomar for months with cameras to look for UFOs, he also sought them with a telescope, it is only at the beginning of the fifties that the salvation is in the end come, he will manage to take some pictures unfortunately all of bad qualities and wear characters of fake, he claims he was able to telepathically contact the Venusians, whom he subsequently met them before five witnesses, whom he himself had chosen; until now nothing serious, but later was only delusions and hallucinations, he claims that there are gardens on the moon, and he met residents of Mars and those of Jupiter and of Saturn and that he walks with the extraterrestrials aboard their spaceships.

There is also Howard Menger who claimed to be contacted by a Venusian woman and it was followed and observed by the Venusians for a long time. As Adamski Menger did not stop there, he also claimed that he had gone on board their spaceships meeting Jupiterian Martians of the people of the planet Saturn, he claims to have visited the moon he has found verdant and he even brought back from the moon potatoes, he also had as proof some photographs all of bad qualities.

It is quite clear that all this circus was organized by the US secret service to discredit all those who speak about UFOs and especially against those who hold certain information on this subject and at the same time present the ufologist as a mere charlatan who tells that nonsense.

A notorious and well-known case of research on modern UFOs. Indeed, it has had a great repercussion worldwide. The case was an event supposedly characterized by direct contact and interaction between extraterrestrial beings and a large group of human beings. I am talking about the so-called "Dolores Barrios affair".

The event I am talking about is a UFO meeting, actually a conference, which took place on August 7 and 8, 1954 at the summit of Mount Palomar, California, at an altitude above 6,000 feet, in front of the Skyline. Lodge. This congress was promoted by George Adamski, Truman Bethurum and Daniel Fry, supposed contacts and well known to the UFO community. More than a thousand people attended, American journalists, FBI agents, saucer witnesses and just curious people.

This congress or conference is further evidence that everything has been organized by the authorities to simply tell nonsense.

At the end of the first day, there was some excitement when the audience noticed the presence of two men and a woman of exotic and very particular appearance. The rumor began that they were Venusian humanoids disguised. The ones Adamski had talked about a few hours ago.

One of the men was using glasses. All three had white skin and the woman had long blond hair. So far, not serious. They might be just strange looking for ordinary people. Then one of the participants asked them, without much embarrassment:

"Are you or are you not Venusians?"

The woman, smiling, answered calmly. " No ". The following dialogue:

- Why are you here?
- Because we are interested in this subject.
- Do you believe in flying saucers?
- Yes.

"Is it true that, as Mr. Adamski says, they come from Venus?"

- Yes, they come from Venus.

Dolores Barrios

Indeed, this woman and her friends were probably mere curious or private investigators working for certain groups, and probably were not welcomed in this circus especially when the woman said that the flying saucers did come from Venus, and more than noticing that there was nothing concrete they preferred to go away precipitately, or perhaps have been intimidated by secret agents a common way against anyone who puts his nose in this case.

Most importantly, no one had ever heard of this woman or companions, showing the ability of the authorities to silence anyone with information about the subject.

Yesterday it was the contacted who told nonsense to discredit the real information, today it is the conspiracy followers of the craziest theories like the flat earth, the reptilians, the illuminati, etc. It is always the same technique to wrap the truth by the improbable so that everything loses its credibility.

It is very possible that the planet Venus is alive against all that NASA tells that is recognized today as a great body of lies. Venus is probably inhabited by an indigenous biological race who have total control over their planet, and have been observing the earth for a long time. The earth is inhabited by humans is a host of various animal breeds. On the other hand, earth is controlled by unknown entities that have been on earth for a long time. These entities possess advanced technologies and a demonic spirit, they engage in large-scale genetic manipulation, and at the same time practice slavery. A multitude of mutants of all kinds have been created by these entities to work for them, and there are certainly humans among them.

It seems that the Venusians are totally against these practices, and they strongly condemn them, they consider these entities as invaders coming out of the solar system and who love evil and have fun creating suffering beings, they love wars and sacrifices and violence, and they are very aggressive, the Venusians also think that these entities represent a great danger to them, and that from the ground they are preparing an invasion against their planet, these entities are very they control the land and exert a great influence on human societies that they consider as livestock and a reservoir of genetic material. Americans have been working with these entities for a long time, they strongly believe in them.

The Americans and many other governments have known for a long time and that some UFOs that furrow the earth come from the planet Venus and that these Venusians are against the invaders settled on earth, but they chose to remain silent because they thought about the UFOs are a temporary affair and the invaders settled on earth will hunt them quickly but none of this happened, the Venusians are very intelligent and able to quickly mount advanced technologies, the Venusians attack the bases of Invaders and their armies of slaves and mutants made by them, many bases are destroyed, a large part of the invaders have to leave their bases by abandoning their equipment and their gear.

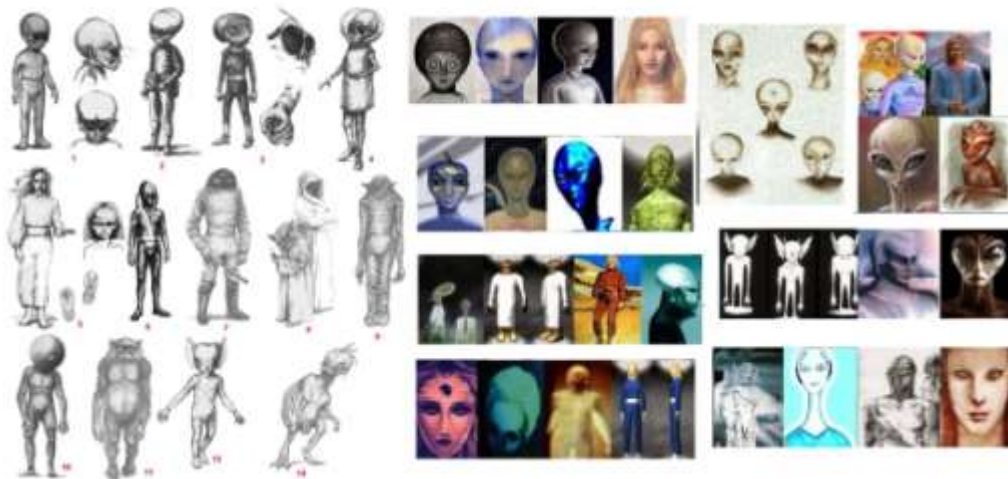

So-called extraterrestrial abduction is the work of the installed on earth entities, they engage in genetic manipulation to create war soldiers, the Americans have always been aware of their practices and maybe even Helped them in their dirty work.

3. The Abducted

The phenomenon of human abduction has increased in recent years or more precisely since the 1960s, which indicates that these entities find it difficult to face the Venusians and that they are looking for other genetic qualities and that they are creating another generation of better performing slave soldiers.

Many Ufologists think that there are several races of extraterrestrials who visit the earth, all that is only illusions, what witnesses see is simply mutants of any kind created by genetic manipulations. All of these creatures be it little gray, big gray, reptilian, hairy creatures and other flying creatures are created by these entities from the human genome and other animals, some of these creatures do not have sex organs and as a result they lack sexual instinct, they were cloned in laboratories of entities settled on earth. Often the mercenaries of these demonic entities use different masks to soak the Abducted, It seems that they will have a lot of trouble controlling the land without their army of slaves.

Extraterrestrial races have largely been described from stories of abductions , a problem that has long been a headache for ufologists and researchers, and at the beginning they believed that alien races are discovering humanity for first time and it is normal that they take some specimens to study them, but by carefully analyzing these stories that are numerous, we note that these abductions look more like demonic rituals and have nothing to do with Scientific Research , the experiences experienced by the Abductés are almost similar and they are highly traumatic, the alleged medical examinations are strange and painful as if these extraterrestrials ignore the basic principles medicine, neither local nor general anesthesia, they treat humans generally with brutality, in reality these presumed medical examinations are rather psychomotor tests, it can not be realized that on perfectly conscious people, their goal is the research and the selection of individuals with high psychomotor skills to use their genetic heritage for the creation of their future army.

Entities that abduct off humans to endure cruel experiences are careful to introduce into these tests other acts often of a religious nature or spiritual messages to diversions on the true goals of these experiences, sometimes they report that they come from another planet outside the solar system.

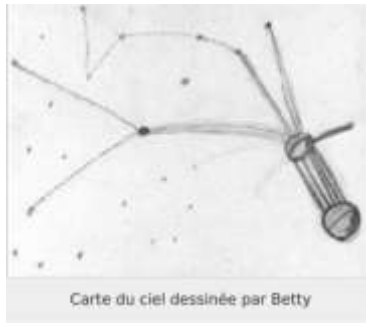

A notorious case of extraterrestrial abduction is that of Betty and Barney Hill; in Betty's story:

The extraterrestrial then let him know that he wanted to perform some simple tests. The first was to provide them with information about the nervous system. For this test, Betty had to remove her dress and lay flat on a table. The doctor then approached her with what appeared to be a bundle of needles and touched her with the tips of these needles at different places on the body, on the spine, behind the ears, on the head, on the arms and legs. At the end of each needle was a thread and a kind of gadget that reminded Betty of a big-screen TV. On this screen appeared different kinds of lines. The examination was completely painless. For the last test, the examiner had grabbed a very long 10 or 15 cm needle and pushed it into Betty's belly. He had not left her long, but the pain had been so intense that Betty, who had felt like stabbing in the stomach, had been moaning in pain. Surprised, the alien had turned his head to look at her but the leader had then leaned over her and, waving a hand in front of Betty's eyes, he had instantly removed all traces of pain. Hypnosis revealed that she had remained traumatized by this experience.

We can clearly see that they are simply psychomotor tests and nothing more, and what will be said is the most important of all:

He asked her if she knew the universe and she said no, that she only knew what she had learned at school. The leader had then crossed the room, he had drawn a card from a slot in the wall and, spreading it on a table, he had asked her if she had already seen something similar before. Betty had leaned over the table, looking at the points of varying sizes, some of which were connected to each other by curved or straight lines. Asked about these lines, the chief had explained to him that some were commercial lines, and others were expeditions.

Indeed this last scene is only the spectacle, the presentation of this card before the eyes of Betty is in fact only the test suite, the card described by Betty is a kind of representation of points are circles and lines, certainly when Betty was looking at her, her brain activity was tracked to measure her ability to react or detect tiny variations on her field of vision, these visual skills are paramount when flying spaceships during combat .

Betty's map is actually nothing, a lot of ufologists took it seriously hoping to determine the origin of the kidnapers.

Some even claim that they were able to discover the group of stars represented by the map seen by Betty Hill, they say it's zeta reticuli. Indeed, these invaders are so cunning that they will always succeed in diverting people's attention from the real clues to point them to nothingness, they always do the same thing whether it be by the crops circle or by the crash of Roswell; they have among humans a powerful media machine that aims to install a climate of confusion.

There are quite cases in which the abductees is confronted by screens or windows where light phenomena occur, which confirms that the abductees are subject to visual tests to determine their ability to detect and react according to the events taking place. Unfold in their fields of vision.

Another case of a woman kidnapped in Brittany (France), she says that it was abducted by aliens insectoid; they showed it a screen or a slideshow or scroll images of the earth and pollution Bla Bla Bla etc. These insectoids look like a praying mantis so they are very religious as a result humans too must attach to their religions, we can see how these entities are misleading.

All these abductions are aimed at the search for specific psychomotor qualities for the creation of the generations of their future soldiers and their future slaves.

Many researchers are now convinced that these kidnappings have a genetic character, some think that these entities practice the hybridization of humans with other extraterrestrial races which is totally absurd and against the basic bases of genetics. Hybridization can only be done on plants or on the same species very close genetically. Indeed, the genome of a living being is like a computer program, even small changes in this program makes it unusable because all parts of the program are linked. So all these genetic manipulations are exclusively on humans and terrestrial animals. Indeed, these genetic manipulations concern particularly certain genes or groups of genes or some DNA sequences that are replaced by others taken from other humans or other animals and the result is often disappointing. As a result of the countless mutants made by these methods must be killed or sacrificed until the completion of a specimen that will have the desired qualities.

4. The Crops circles

One of their methods of deluding societies is the Crops circles, these large-scale geometric figures drawn on cultures, their sole purpose and divert the attention of humans from real realities and plunge them into delusions; people from all over struggled to break through their mysteries and decipher the messages hidden in these geometric figures. In fact, the father of the crop circles was indeed Professor Adamski, he was the first to bring back to humans the drawing of footprints of his friend the Venusian claiming that this drawing is full of universal knowledge.

It is not excluded that some of these Crops circles were made with great precision and with unknown means for the man but that does not mean that they must necessarily be useful messages for the humanity if not this is an instrument to increase doubt and confusion.

Chibolton's drawing was discovered in a field of culture, this message is the answer of the Arecibo radio telescope message, it tells that their authors inhabit the earth and Mars and a satellite of Jupiter and that they are small sizes with big heads and that their chemistry is based on silicon etc. Etc. Indeed neither the message of Arecibo, nor that of chibolton have any credibility and both tell anything!

The following is Crabwood drawing, finally a drawing with a clear and clear message at least compared to the dozens of crop circles around the world.

It is in the form of a typical alien showing a disk similar to a CD-ROM where a text in binary computer code has been engraved; the message and the following:

Beware the bearers of FALSE gifts & their BROKEN PROMISES. Much PAIN but still time. EELIJ?E. There is GOOD out there. We OPpose DECEPTION. Conduit CLOSING

This message looks very threatening, The executioner's threat to his victim stating that she has no way out or escape. The face of crabwood gathers in some way the little gray described by the UFO literature but in reality it has a strange appearance, its more like an owl or an eagle although these animals have a popularity in demonic circles.

5. The Economics of Extraterrestrials

These demonic entities have settled on earth for probably several thousand years, and they are responsible for intense climate of violence that prevails on earth, and it is they who incite the bloodiest wars, they have fun to see the Murder, the victims, the blood, the corpses, the suffering, they have manipulated humans for many centuries and certainly have altered their genetic heritage throughout history.

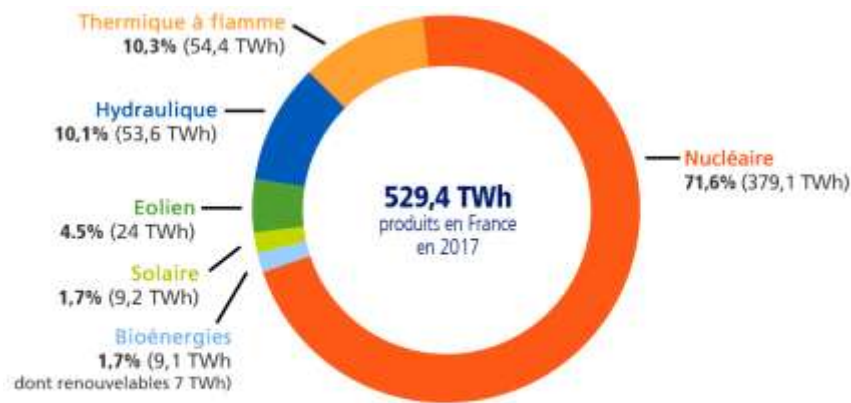

The Venusians do not recognize the terrestrial governments since they consider them all slaves of these entities installed on earth, however, they did not decide to directly attack humans without this act being totally excluded. The governments were always terrorized that Venusians attack strategic military bases; on the other hand the Venusians may have come into contact with some humans while divulging some secrets of what is happening on earth, the Americans are involved with these extraterrestrial entities installed on earth in crimes against humans and in dubious affairs.

These demonic entities have prudently allowed some states to acquire increasingly sophisticated weapons in exchange for their loyalties and to deal with them against the Venusians, these entities have no confidence in humans despite the fact that political elite governing the world is installed by them; the reality is that it is they who actually govern the land and the world economy is in the service of these entities and their innumerable armies.

It is likely that these entities are not biological, maybe they have another form of life unknown to us and that they strive to hide it for reasons of their security, they undoubtedly have advanced knowledge in science and in technology but they use slave soldiers who created it by genetic manipulation from humans and different animals like monkeys, dogs, rats, birds, reptiles and so on.

These entities can not show themselves or their armies that are hidden in large subterranean bases under the ground for fear of being destroyed by the Venusians, indeed it is these entities that have allowed humans to develop and to establish a developed economy and industry; the economic calculations show that to satisfy and meet all the needs of humanity with excess, not more than 20% of active population of 30 to 50 years are required who must work part-time 3 hours a day, 5 days a week and ten months a year in teaching, health, industry, agriculture, administration, social services, hobbies, etc. Etc. Bearing the reality is that those who work are as poor as those who are unemployed, much of the world economy is at the service of these entities settled on earth and to fuel their war effort.

The clearest example is the use of nuclear power plants to produce electricity, since since the end of World War II their numbers have been growing steadily. The reality is that these plants are so expensive whether it was construction or in operations and uranium ore processing and nuclear fuel fabrication, because their construction requires expertise and the use of special materials. Indeed, these plants are much more expensive than thermal power plants easy to build with standard materials and use a natural fuel, nuclear power can not in any case compete with fossil fuel plants, the reality is that these nuclear power plants were built to produce plutonium as well as these isotopes and other isotopes that are very important for these entities.

© EDF

This graph shows that more than 70% of electrical energy in France is of nuclear origin, the following graph shows its use according to the sectors:

La consommation d'électricité par secteurs en France en 2017

Source RTE - bilan électrique 2017

© EDF

We can see at first glance that this last graph is far from being true to reality, indeed the biggest consumer of electricity are households whereas in the graph they represent only 33%, ie:

$33\% \times 474 \text{ TWh} = 156.42 \text{ TWh per year} = 156.42 \times 10^{12} \text{ Wh / year}$, it is the electric energy consumed by the French households that is to say residential.

However, there are fewer than 30 million households in France that consume a maximum of 6,000 Wh or 6 kWh per day, or $6000 \text{ Wh} \times 365 \text{ days} = 2.19 \times 10^6 \text{ Wh per year per household}$. Multiplying by 30 million households we find: $2.19 \times 10^6 \times 30 \times 10^6 = 65.7 \times 10^{12} \text{ Wh per year}$, which is half of what EDF claims.

EDF inflates electricity consumption figures in France to legitimize the authorities' use of nuclear energy to cope with the energy shortage, France even states that electricity accounts for more than 40% of the energy consumed.

It was just after the end of the Second World War that the Atomic Energy Commission (CEA), which immediately began the construction of a number of nuclear reactors, was created. Their numbers are constantly increasing despite the availability of a cheaper energy that is oil and natural gas, indeed the big consumer of oil is transport and especially the automotive sector, so nuclear energy has no influence on this sector, despite this the world governments have found the oil shock of the 1970s a great pretext to further increase the number of nuclear power plants without affecting fuel prices; indeed the fuels of explosion engines can easily be produced from different types of plants. Nuclear electrical energy represents only a small fraction of other forms of energy such as hydro and thermal power plants, and all of them less than the total energy consumed, of which transportation accounts for most of the energy. It is clear that the proliferation of atomic power plants that are so expensive has and will have no impact on the availability of energy.

In fact, the electrical energy consumed in homes remains low compared to the energy consumed by the means of transport, it is clear that this gigantic fleet of nuclear power plants has no influence on the availability of energy, the nuclear industry works for the invading entities.

World electricity production is enormous, and this production may well exceed the real needs of the people. A significant part feeds the underground bases of the invaders. On the other hand, many people do not have access to electricity.

Huge amounts of radioactive waste have been produced for decades, the authorities call them radioactive waste for diversion but the reality is that they are the result of years of work and spending money by billions of dollars, these alleged nuclear waste is a gold mine for entities settled on earth, all nuclear facilities have been built for the production of these wastes that contain a host of radioactive elements and their isotopes to provide them to entities settled on Earth.

We can see that since the Second World War there has been a real stagnation of science and scientific discoveries, especially in the theoretical field, universities all over the world produce absolutely nothing, the current technological development is essentially based on the techniques provided by these entities to the major powers, especially the Americans who were still expecting that these entities will provide them with weapons and spacecraft by claiming that they built it themselves.

Entities settled on earth ensure that the human economy is always handicapped, and much of the human work is useless and that the majority of their efforts are wasted, many examples show that these entities want the lives of humans be tough and unstable and that humans are always threatened by need and poverty. for example the automotive industry and the aviation industry are still controlled by multinational corporations that impose their standards on humans and ensure that no changes are made to their products

, for example the four-stroke engine is surpassed by several more simple and more efficient rotary engines without these companies change this engine by another more efficient, these companies that are controlled by these entities are vigilant to complicate their products making them fragile and irreparable and in several cases defective from the factory or include obvious defects which is in blatant disagreement with the ideas of preservation of the environment, one manufactures many products of limited life reduced and irreparable which consequently will lead to the accumulation of waste of all kinds.

The history of mankind has been for many centuries in darkness, humans did not differ from many other living animals on earth, it was only early twentieth century that humans quickly acquired the knowledge the more advanced in physics, chemistry, electronics, metallurgy and many other technical fields, all this rapid evolution was not the result of chance but it was inspired and planned by these demonic beings installed on earth, so this rapid development of Human society was not intended for the welfare of humans and to facilitate their lives but in fact these demonic entities had long planned to use humanity as a spearhead to invade the planet Venus.

6. Ufology

The American authorities have relied on the weapon of disinformation to confuse UFOs and hide their true nature and even their existence, huge amounts of false information have been circulated by various organizations among them even those created for to study the phenomenon, the goal was twofold:

- 1) present the authorities as knowing nothing about the phenomenon and that they do their best to elucidate its mystery.
- 2) Use these same organizations to flood the media with misleading UFO stories and false information and at the same time discredit the real testimonies.

Ufology is a branch that studies the UFO phenomenon be it the appearance of flying vehicles not belonging to human technology or the close encounters with alleged extraterrestrials, indeed the ufology was from the beginning under the influence of the authorities and under their total control, they even used it to flood the ufology literature with false information and obscure all the significant clues, all the extraterrestrial encounters had been distorted and others hidden, the witnesses are strongly influenced to say otherwise something that they have actually experienced, others were forced to not disclose certain information, any researcher in this area must submit to specific rules, some have been killed while others are forced to stop.

7. The Roswell Case

It is very difficult to talk about UFOs without reporting the Roswell affair, it is about the alleged crash of a flying saucer in this region, this case took place in July 2, 1947 that is to say At the beginning of the history of flying saucers, maybe at this time few people are aware of the existence of this phenomenon and most of them have vague ideas on this subject.

The story began with the discovery of metal debris scattered over a large area by a farmer in the area called Max Brazel, he reported this discovery to Sheriff George Wilcox who in turn informed the military base of Roswell, all this debris is quickly collected by a squadron dispatched quickly to the area in question.

On July 8, the Roswell base reported capturing a flying saucer, and at the same time talking about extraterrestrial debris, we see clearly that there is confusion and conflict between the decision-makers because at the beginning it is only debris and nobody talks about flying saucers, the term capture means that the army was chasing these aircraft and that it finally captured one, it is clear that the military themselves have no idea what is really happening. Subsequently the Roswell base has denied this whole story by saying that it is simply the debris of a probe balloon. So no saucer no extraterrestrial debris.

The question is who gave the order to declare that there was a recovery of an extraterrestrial craft, because this declaration can be emanated only by high levels of the state, and on the other hand the base has no authority to determine the nature of the captured gear or the nature of the debris recovered.

This business is quickly forgotten, it is the only case where the army had admitted the existence of flying saucers, but at a certain point it resurfaced not only talking about a crash of disk but also the recovery of humanoids.

What is certain in this case is the recovery of the debris that may have gone unnoticed by the Americans who closely followed everything that happens in the region, probably several disks crashed that are shot down by a belligerent force, Americans are involved in this case and they are aware of everything that is going on.

The only purpose of relaunching this case each time is to present it as a unique case in history and that the American authorities were not aware of anything and that this so-called flying saucer was discovered by the farmer Max Brazel who alerted the authorities who preferred to keep this story secret. In fact there were several cases of UFO crashes and the Americans had a special service for the recovery of wrecks. On the other hand the crushed gear in the area was somehow involved with the Americans in shady deals.

Indeed already in 1950 Frank Scully had published a book talking about the recovery of three flying saucers crashed in the area with their occupants, the book author had this information of two dubious characters and who were later presented as mere crooks. What is certain in this story is that information about the recovery of the wreckage of these aircraft circulated heavily in some circles, as usually the secret services worked to discredit them.

These entities have several underground bases but probably not in the United States, rumors say that one of their most imploring bases on earth is in EXTERNAL MONGOLIA in the mountains of the Himalayas, Indeed, several UFO crashes have occurred in all previous years in India, China, Thailand and so on. The UFOs of these entities went secretly each time to the United States to obtain nuclear fuel. In these desolate places of America was a thriving trade of radioactive elements between Americans and entities settled on earth, one of the best-known business is that of SOCORRO in New Mexico when a police officer comes face to face with An egg-shaped craft on the ground with two dwarves who are near her, apparently they were in the process of retrieving their commodity .

What is odd in Roswell's case is that he was highly publicized and at the same time no one spoke of circumstances surrounding him, no one asked the fundamental questions about the causes of this crash, or is the destroyed gear? at that time the United States sky is teeming with these aircraft, the American authorities want to make swallow people that they have nothing to do with any strange aircraft crashing in the desert of new Mexico.

Many ufologists talk about area 51, it's normal that American authorities have always denied its existence and that's the reality, there is no area 51, no sheds, no wrecks, no of corpses of humanoids all that is only cinema and propaganda of the secret services for remove all the suspicions on the traffic of the US with these entities installed on earth, Ufologists say that Americans are testing Alien technology in this area, which is totally absurd, because the science is in schools and universities that the Americans make sure they are stagnant but the desert was still the seat Shady deals such as the trafficking of radioactive products with the land-based entities and the considerate drug trafficking of Latin America. Indeed, the Americans were still waiting for these entities to provide them with space equipment and advanced technology in exchange for their services, but they do not know own weapons of a belligerent party will surely open the door for them hell.

8. Valensole case

One of the most credible and important cases in ufology history is the Valensole affair, , it is a close encounter between a French farmer and the occupants of an egg-shaped craft that landed in a field of lavender belonged to the farmer, the event occurred two kilometers by flight from bird north-west of Valensole a French town, lavender is an aromatic plant from which several important essences are extracted in the pharmaceutical industry and in perfumery and cleaning products. it was early July 1965, it seems that this machine landed in the field without noticing the presence of a farmer who was smoking a cigarette behind a pile of stones, he heard a weird hiss, wanting to check it was a helicopter, as soon as it passed this pile of stone, he noticed that a bizarre craft had actually landed. and trying to find out what it's about he noticed two dwarfs were looking at the plants in the field, they only noticed the farmer's presence when he approached them, this business is one of the most important in the history of Ufology, it shows in an undeniable way that these entities live on earth and that part of the agricultural production feeds their societies.

The Ufological literature pro system presents this case like others in a naive way, they claim that the extraterrestrials are discovering a new planet and that they are studying its fauna and flora. The reality is that a large part of the world economy is at the service of a huge mass of various creatures and a huge army living underground or in places not represented on the usual maps.

The case of Valensole has a capital clue since the farmer surprised the humanoids in the process of examining the lavender so interested in this plant, so no doubt they were examining their harvest, according to the farmer these two dwarves squatted and to examine a lavender plant, when he saw one of them paralyzed him by an unknown weapon, immediately the two entities rushed into the craft that took off after some seconds.

A very thorough investigation was immediately carried out by the gendarmerie which revealed the existence of the traces on the ground, the sincerity of the witness is without doubt, the investigation continued several months after and even the following years without revealing any sign hoax . Indeed the land in the landing zone has undergone significant chemical and physical changes that lasted several years later without anyone being able to give an explanation. However it is certain that particular circumstances have come together for this case to be known worldwide because most cases these cases are camouflaged, and even in this case it is very possible that many important clues were hidden, after the The incident witness was forced to live in secret and few people have met him, the worst is that a crowd of people speak on his behalf and his experience.

The stories of close encounters with humanoids or alleged extraterrestrials are often distorted, removed from some important clues, statements and impressions of witnesses are sometimes reversed or distorted; in this case exactly we find several versions of the Valensole case, some say that this field was subject to flying and maybe these dwarves came to steal more, indeed the farmer declared that the dwarves were only in the process of examine the plants because otherwise they will be tearing the lavender.

In one version it is said that the farmer was completely traumatized, his wife or his friends asked him if he saw the devil, he answered that it was worse, in another version he declares that he feels peace emanating from these two entities despite being mocking him when he was paralyzed, in fact after the incident the farmer stopped cultivating lavender. The mayor of Valensole continues to describe these dwarves as angels sent by the good God.

For the authorities they preferred to remain silent, for some circles close to them it is simply a helicopter, indeed the French authorities could not ignore the destination of their harvest of lavender.

9. UFOs and Nazis

At one time a theory has made many echoes is that UFOs are of Nazi origin, and that their starting point is Antarctic, this theory suffers from many contradictions and does not rest on anything concrete, the information of a Haunebu flying saucer construction program did not appear until several years after the end of the second war and have no credibility, there is no credible evidence that the German army had at the time really these kinds of vehicles nor the existence of a project of their construction, so far no one has any idea about their operating principles nor the physical principles on which they rely.

It is possible that the Nazis sent several expeditions to Antarctica before and during the war and probably set up a base on this frozen continent and may even be that many of the senior cadres fled there, but given the extreme conditions in this area of the globe it is excluded that it can shelter an activity allowing the development of an industry, in fact the activity of the UFOs and its characteristics does not agree in any point with the fact that these vehicles are of terrestrial origin. If the German physicists have managed to produce this kind of technology, all the great powers will sooner or later master this technology, whereas after more than 70 years since the end of the second world war humanity is still ignorant of this domain except for a few Black projects that nobody has any idea of their realities. On the other hand these vehicles were present even before the appearance of the Nazi state in Germany.

For a long time and until now the the greats power work on vertical take-off planes, it is very possible that several types of this kind of aircraft have been built and tested, and there are among them some that have a saucer shape but the problem is not the shape of the craft but its performance, the technology of the actual flying saucers is based on a physics unknown until today, maybe the Americans have some ideas about their operating principle but they are unable to master this technology. it is not we know the principles of manufacturing integrated circuits that we can manufacture them right away, the principles of manufacturing integrated circuits can be manufactured right away, technology is a long journey and an accumulation of knowledge and experience.

On the other hand there are several types of technology of these machines, some seem to work in the manner of an airplane may be they move by controlled radioactive emission, others use powerful electromagnetic fields which make them bright, of other more evolved ones interact with the gravitational field of the space which allows them to make great accelerations.

However an intriguing fact is the rapid development of German technology, it is indisputable that the greatest technological breakthroughs have been achieved in Germany whether it is the V1 and V2 rockets as well as jet aircraft, is it only the fruit German scientists and engineers or are they helped by an outside power?

The technological development of humans has always been controlled by the extraterrestrial entities installed on earth, nothing can be built or manufactured or marketed without their agreement, it is they who have allowed the technological development of humans and at the same time he stops him , a example of this control is the helicopter which is a vertical takeoff plane, it is a very bad plane, very unstable, noisy, very complex piloting, these blades represent a great danger which caused quite a lot of accidents. despite There are quite a few vertical take-off planes that have been proposed without any of them being adopted, a form of vertical take-off aircraft had the disc shape seems to be more stable however the Americans have declared that he is unstable, maybe the invaders have refused him not to confuse it with their aircraft.

The rumors of the UFO-Nazi relationship had certainly originated with the American secret services to divert and direct the hatred of the populations towards these aircraft. Many researchers think that the debacle of the operation highjump in Antarctic is due to the Nazis or other entities installed at the south pole, in fact this operation remained until today obscure, some speak that this operation was intended to Chase the Nazis in Antarctica. Indeed the Americans had always traded with the entities settled on earth and probably were attacked by the Venusians while he was preparing to deliver goods to the Aliens. The entities installed on earth have several underground bases scattered in various parts of the globe, the Americans had always supplied them with nuclear fuel, even in the United States there was always a traffic of nuclear fuel between the Americans and these entities, they went every Once in remote areas to receive fuel, the SOCORRO case in New Mexico testifies to this fact.

10. UFOs and Paranormal

From the beginning Ufologists and researchers have found that there is a strong link between the UFOs phenomenon and the Paranormal. Indeed this domain is a vast subject that does not have a clear definition, for some the Paranormal is any incomprehensible phenomenon and consequently the UFOs as long as unknown phenomenon enters in this frame but many of the scientific phenomena which did not find any explanation are not classified as Paranormal, others qualify it as a phenomenon that defies the laws of physics and our conception of the world.

in reality the Paranormal is intimately related to the entities settled on earth, because the physical knowledge is mathematical of the humans are very limited, the scientific knowledge of the humans is limited in that allow these entities which make sure that many things completely escape from our knowledge. The entities installed on earth are the paranormal, they strive to hide their nature to hide their weak points, although they exercise total control over the earth they make sure they are hidden from view, they have a restricted link with a limited number of humans.

These entities probably have a weak interaction with our material world, this interaction is voluntary, when they cancel each other out they become as absent or invisible, they can only act on the world when it comes in contact with it and at this moment the that they are more vulnerable.

These entities have always had a negative influence on the human species, they are responsible for the great climate of violence that reigns on earth, it is possible that they had intervened in the genome of certain populations, they surely practice the Eugenism of a very negative way on the populations by favoring certain perverse behaviors in the humans and at the same time by eliminating the individuals who do not work according to their plans, at one time the brutality and the tyranny were virtues honored and sought in the humans .

11. The Extraterrestrials and Religion

The majority of humans, if not all, are extraterrestrials or more accurately the work of these demonic entities. Many humans have undergone genetic modifications by these demonic entities to enslave them and for the satisfaction of their quirks by sacrifices, it seems that they feed on evil and on violence and suffering, in fact the history of humans has been bloody and relentless all time, they conditioned humans since the dawn of time to worship a mythical, unknown and dominant power and to submit under leaders chosen by these entities. There is only one religion for the humans it is the one imposed by these demonic entities, all the religions on earth are only a copy of the primary religion imposed by these entities, and every time a person rebels against this order the invaders create a new religion by distorting these words and his message, the result is always a religion consistent with the primary religion. There are quarrels between different religions on earth, but in fact all religions are just a copy of the original primary religion of these demonic entities that they have imposed on humans.

The adherence to a religion is innate to the majority of people, maybe these demonic entities have integrated it into the human genome to tame and enslave them, indeed it is by religion that we can easily lead the population towards the bloodiest wars. People are insensitive to injustice and crimes and even genocide but when it comes to religion we can easily manipulate them.

In the book of John Jesus already described humans as the son of the devil, in verse 8 - 44: ((you, you have as father the devil , and you want to carry out your father's desires. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him...)).

12. The future

The entities installed on earth are like a bacterium, a virus, a parasite living at the expense of other living beings, the earth is a sick and suffering planet by the presence of these demonic beings. Venusians know that humans are victims of these beings as well as their great army of slaves and mutants but they also know that these entities represent a great danger on Venus. For Venusians either they will find a way to destroy these entities and free the earth from them or they will be forced to destroy the earth entirely. On the other hand these demonic entities always look badly at humans and think that they will represent a great danger to them in the future, that's why these entities lead war and genocide, maybe even they are replacing humans, especially Europeans, with another more malleable breed because the European breeds, which they say can threaten their long-term interests.
